ABOUT AUTHOR

INTRODUCTION

This book introduces you to key elements of my Taroscopic System, conceived in 1994 and partially revealed on my Taroscopes website, launched in 1999. The information contained in this book is not included on the Taroscopic Mystery School itself, although it is supplemental to the course material provided there. Members of my online Mystery School will derive the greatest benefit from this book, but non-members will also benefit from working with this stand-alone divination system. It constitutes an invaluable method for opening direct contact with the Inner Zodiac or Higher Self.

The Taroscopic System presented here for the first time is sophisticated but not complex. All you need to get going is the Major Arcana from a Tarot deck and a basic knowledge of astrology, particularly of the astrological houses. The meanings of the twelve houses can be found online or in any decent book on astrology. (Members of my Mystery School should refer to the section on the meanings of the twelve astrological houses, as they study the procedures in this book.)

In the following chapters you will discover how to construct your natal and yearly charts without the need for any of the paraphernalia associated with normal astrological divination. Although my system incorporates the well-known twelve houses of the zodiac, it does not require the use of tables of houses, ephemerises, atlases, protractors, compasses or computer software. In other words, the Taroscopic System is purely archetypal and not based in spurious ideas about rocks in space affecting consciousness and destiny. On the contrary, it is a Hermetic truism that man is a complete universe in himself and that astrology is the means of navigating the mysteries of inner being. Moreover, time is an attribute not of the external world but of consciousness. It is an expression of your Inner Chronology, the means by which you demarcate the vitally important Rites of Passage encountered and crossed on your personal journey toward individuation and Self-realization.

The book reveals how natal and yearly charts are constructed by way of your date of birth, personal year number and Taroscopic rising sign. This means that you'll be working not only with Astrology but also with Numerology and Tarot. The Taroscopic System combines these arts, showing you how they work together to provide a complete profile of your character and destiny.

This book can and should be used alongside my book Path of the Fool: Meanings of the Major and Minor Arcana.

CHAPTER ONE
NATAL CHART CONSTRUCTION I

The most exotic fruits are found under the plainest leaves - Milton Percival

There are two ways of constructing your Taroscopic Natal Chart. In this chapter you will learn the first and main method.

The first step entails finding your true sun sign. Chances are it will not be the same as that found by using conventional Western Tropical or Eastern Vedic astrological systems, although in some cases it will be the same.

In the Taroscopic System the precessional movement of constellations associated with the twelve signs is taken into consideration. This apparently westward movement of the twelve constellations in relation to the fixed houses bearing their names is also noted by Vedic and Sidereal astrologers. However, in our opinion their charts are not wholly correct. This is because they have incorrectly put the emphasis on the constellation that has come to occupy the house of birth.

Therefore if you were born in the month of May, you might be considered an Aries sun sign, rather than a Taurus, since the constellation of Aries has within the last 2,000 years slowly moved westward into the house of Taurus. The constellations of Taurus occupy the following house of Gemini, and so it goes for the other constellations and houses.

A New Astrology

As far as the Taroscopic System goes, we take the opposite perspective. We ask where the actual constellation of Taurus has gone. Where is it now? Well, due to the apparent movement of the stars relative to the twelve fixed houses, the stars of Taurus, as we said, occupy most of the house of Gemini, about 24 degrees of it. Since every house is made up of 30 degrees, we see that each constellation (from Aries to Pisces) is sidereally displaced from the house bearing its name by 24 degrees. This is important. It accounts for why we prefer to consider a May-born person not as a Taurean sun sign per se, but a Geminian. In other words, we are not interested in investigating the old apartment after its occupants have left. We are more interested in the new premises to which they have moved. It is where they now actually live that will, so to speak, determine their behavior and destiny. Astrologically speaking, that domicile is older than the occupants. It serves to shape their existence in the present. Therefore we must be concerned with its influence if we are to precisely analyze the occupant's character, outlook and lifestyle. The sun sign can in this sense be considered the "neighborhood" in which one lives. If we pay some attention to their previous astrological address it is only in a supplemental capacity.

The Rising Sign

Once we establish the correct position of your sun sign, it is a straightforward step to find the all-important rising sign. In the Taroscopic System the rising sign or ascendant is simply the sign opposite the Taroscopic sun sign. For our example this would be Sagittarius, the opposite sign of Gemini. The reason why we adopt this opposite sign as the rising sign is because this is the constellation seen after nightfall on the day of one's birth. A Taurean born in May, with his Taroscopic sun sign in the house of Gemini, will see the stars of Sagittarius in that zone of the sky on the day he was born. We say "day," but of course one cannot see the stars during the day. Therefore in ancient times when an astrologer or diviner marked the position of the stars for a newborn infant it was during the nighttime. Looking up he would note what constellation rose into the sky on the "day" (or more correctly night) of birth. He was not looking to the eastern horizon to see what constellation appeared there. This eastern zone became associated with the rising sign later in history after Solar Cult theology became dominant, and after consciousness suffered partition, to be oriented with the so-called "Left Brain." At this point, to discover a person's rising sign, a host of mathematical paraphernalia was required. It was no longer a matter of actual empirical observation, but of abstract trigonometry and technical calculation. That kind of cognition and practice is essential for the construction of physical structures, but has no place when it comes to the nature and dynamics of the psyche.

Astrologically speaking, if we wait until the nights of December (the month corresponding to the sign of Sagittarius), we'd see the stars of Gemini rising after dark. And given ancient man's vital conception of and interest in "opposites," we deign it to be true that this astrological opposition became the foundation of the personal chart. The later form of Solar Cult astrology – with its emphasis on the eastern horizon – is to our mind a corruption of the lost holistic original. Therefore the Taroscopic System returns to the simple, logical, uncorrupted and ultimately empirical system of divination favored by those who prefer to dispense with atlases and tables of houses, etc.

Additionally, modern astrology bases the position of your rising sign on the place on earth where you were born. But I ask, was this a factor for the ancients before the seventeenth century when the earth was delineated into longitudes and latitudes? Astrological divination has been in the world from the earliest historical ages. But are we to assume that early astrologers took into consideration the exact geospheric location of an infant's hut or shack? I hardly think so. Again, this construct came about after astrology and the divination arts became subject to non-archetypal attitudes and paradigms, and after the true significance of the stars and their natural dynamics had been obscured.

In the Taroscopic System none of this paraphernalia is required. We simply observe what constellation occupies the seasonal position of one's birth. That is, what constellation appears after dark on the day of birth? This constellation is the true companion of one's sun sign. It is the sigil of birth, the symbolic heavenly twin that accompanies one through life. In astrological terms it symbolizes the means by which we achieve our goals and fulfill our destiny.

In the following chapters you will find tables enabling you to quickly locate your Taroscopic sun and rising signs. After you've constructed your Taroscopic Chart, you'll find it interesting to compare and contrast what it says about you with a conventional Tropical or Vedic chart. You will be surprised by what you find, and the ease with which you find it.

I certainly advise you to study the charts of the following famous individuals. You will soon see that in comparison to the Taroscopic analysis, the Vedic analysis of their charts is patently inaccurate: J. Krishnamurti, Aleister Crowley, Samuel Aun Weor, Bruce Lee, Arthur Conan Doyle, Wilhelm Reich, Sigmund Freud, Emily Bronte, Andres Segovia, Joseph Campbell, Luke Kelly, Ayn Rand, Lewis Carroll, Dylan Thomas, Werner Herzog, Florian Fricke, Rainer Marie Rilke, William Wordsworth, Friedrich Nietzsche, Philip Larkin, Oscar Wilde, Sylvia Plath, Salvador Dali, Alice Miller, Orson Welles, Elvis Presley, Jimmy Page, John Cleese, Lemmy Kilmister, Steve Vai, Tony Iommi, George Best, Stephen Hendry, Ronnie O'Sullivan and Margaret Thatcher.

I first devised the rudiments of the Taroscopic System in 1994, after making a detailed study of both the Western and Eastern systems of astrological divination. I always had problems with the idea of "magical rays" affecting consciousness and destiny, and later came to realize that most of our understanding about the manner in which mind affects nature, and vice versa, are profoundly wrongheaded. However, it is not my wish to present a discourse on that complex subject here. To my mind it is essential that the art of Astrology is returned to its archetypal roots. It is to the Inner Zodiac or Oracle that we must look for guidance, not the external rocks floating in space and the geometric angles they make. As I show in my online Mystery School, the three, four, seven, ten and twelve are merely expressions of the architecture and dynamics of the psyche. They get into the external world by way of the psyche. We then wrongheadedly imagine they exist independently of consciousness. This is a situation I've sought throughout the years to rectify. Having taught the Taroscopic System all over the world, and via my online Mystery School, and having studied the charts of hundreds of famous people, I can vouch for its simplicity, accuracy and depth. As you will see it is a system enhanced by adding to it the most important elements from Tarot and Numerology.

> The important point to be remembered is that when the sun was said to be in a certain sign of the zodiac, the ancients really meant that the sun occupied the opposite sign and cast its long ray into the house in which they enthroned it. Therefore, when it is said that the sun is in Taurus, it means (astronomically) that the sun is in the sign opposite to Taurus, which is Scorpio. This resulted in two distinct schools of philosophy: one geocentric and exoteric, the other heliocentric and esoteric. While the ignorant multitudes worshiped the house of the sun's reflection, which in the case described would be the Bull, the wise revered the house of the sun's actual dwelling, which would be the Scorpion, or the Serpent, the symbol of the concealed spiritual mystery - M. P. Hall (The Secret Teachings of All Ages)

CHAPTER TWO
Natal Chart Construction II

In this chapter we get into the specifics of constructing your Taroscopic Natal Chart.

First let's remind ourselves of the Tropical sun sign dates and periods:

ARIES: March 21 - April 20
TAURUS: April 21 - May 20
GEMINI: May 21 - June 20
CANCER: June 21 - July 21
LEO: July 22 - August 22
VIRGO: August 23 - September 22
LIBRA: September 23 - October 22
SCORPIO: October 23 - November 22
SAGITTARIUS: November 23 - December 21
CAPRICORN: December 22 - January 19
AQUARIUS: January 20 - February 18
PISCES: February 19 - March 20

This is the most important table to memorize for understanding Western astrology. It is vital to know it through and through if you wish to understand the Taroscopic approach. For now just make note of your own date of birth and the sign associated with it.

How Astrology Works

The zodiac with its twelve signs comes into being because of an astronomical phenomenon known as the Precession of the Equinoxes. The precessional movement of the stars and constellations in relation to the twelve fixed houses aren't as important to practitioners of Tropical astrology. They are important to astronomers and Sidereal astrologers. Precession specifically refers to the slow apparently forward (or westward) movement of the stars along the zodiacal belt or ecliptic. This movement is an illusion created by the wobble of the earth's axis and the sun's apparent movement backwards (or eastward) along the ecliptical belt. Because of this slow wobble, astrology is possible. If you were to observe the eastern horizon every day for seventy two years, you'd notice that the sun doesn't rise in the same place each day. Because of the earth's slow wobbling motion, every seventy two years the sun appears to move backwards through a sign by one degree. After 2,160 years it completes thirty degrees of arc, which corresponds with the size of a single sign or house of the zodiac. It takes approximately 25,920 years for the sun to pass backwards through all twelve signs. This larger cycle is known as the Great or Platonic Year. The average age of a man, seventy two, corresponds with one degree of the zodiacal cycle.

The Sidereal Zodiac

The movement of the sun and constellations in relation to the twelve fixed houses is important in the Taroscopic System. But before we get into detail about that let's note the alternative table of sun signs as delineated by Sidereal and Vedic astrologers:

ARIES: 15 April - 15 May
TAURUS: 16 May - 15 June
GEMINI: 16 June - 14 July
CANCER: 15 July - 17 August
LEO: 18 August - 17 September
VIRGO: 18 September - 18 October
LIBRA: 19 October - 17 November
SCORPIO: 18 November - 16 December
SAGITTARIUS: 17 December - 14 January
CAPRICORN: 15 January - 13 February
AQUARIUS: 14 February - 15 March
PISCES: 16 March - 14 April

It is not so important for you to memorize this table because these dates are only approximate and not exact. No consensus has been reached among Vedic practitioners as to which astrological calendar is to be standardized. In any case, since in the Tropical System most signs finish on the 21st or 22nd, you'll see that there is a gap of about six days or so at the end of each Sidereal sign until the close of a Tropical sign. This gap will become important later when I show how the Taroscopic System differs from Sidereal and Vedic methods.

In Sidereal and Vedic astrology some constellations start approximately on the fifteenth day of every calendar month which we know is made up of approximately thirty days. Astrological signs finish on or around the 21st day of a sign. Counting back 6 days from the 21st brings us approximately to the end dates of each sign on the Vedic table, but it's not very accurate. Most Tropical astrologers prefer to use the regular twelve house system, and to round off the size of each constellation to thirty degrees. We do the same in the Taroscopic System. This is because, as said, the twelve regular divisions are an emanation of consciousness. Consequently, they are more important than the physical stars.

The Taroscopic Zodiac

Now, as said in the previous chapter, the Taroscopic System does not conform to the Vedic System. In fact it is the reverse of the Vedic System. The Taroscopic System takes into account where the stars of one's birth have moved in relation to the house bearing its name. Obviously this means they are to be found in the next house. This is because the constellations appear to travel westward in relation to the fixed houses. However, only 24 degrees of a constellation is to be found in the following house. Six degrees hang over in the house bearing its name. This goes for each of the twelve constellations. So, in the case of Taurus, in the Tropical System the sign ends on May 20. We must therefore count back 6 days to find the cutoff point of the constellation. This will be May 14. Someone born between the 14th and 20th is a true Taurus, since the stars of Taurus still occupy that small part of the house or sky. Someone born before the 14th is a Gemini, since the stars of Taurus – that once occupied that area of sky – now occupy the following house of Gemini. Taroscopically, our Taurean is a Gemini or Taurus-Gemini. (In the Vedic System, as we see from the table above, they would be erroneously considered an Aries.)

Example Chart

Professor J. R. R. Tolkien was born on January 3. This date of birth makes him a Capricorn in the conventional western or Tropical System, but not in the Taroscopic System. This is because that date comes before the cutoff point, which is in the case of Capricorn the 13th. The 3rd is well before this date. So Professor Tolkien was Taroscopically an Aquarius, or if you prefer a Capricorn-Aquarius. This is because a large part of the actual stars of Capricorn now occupy the house of Aquarius. Horoscopically, this means that Professor Tolkien had a great many Aquarian traits to his personality. It also means that his rising sign was Leo, the opposite sign of Aquarius. By placing the sign of Leo on the first house of the zodiac we can construct Professor Tolkien's Taroscopic Natal Chart. (Had he been born on or after the 13th day of the month he'd have been a true Capricorn, in which case his rising sign would be Cancer.)

Professor Tolkien's Taroscopic Natal Chart is as follows:

FIRST HOUSE: Leo
SECOND HOUSE: Virgo
THIRD HOUSE: Libra
FOURTH HOUSE: Scorpio
FIFTH HOUSE: Sagittarius
SIXTH HOUSE: Capricorn
SEVENTH HOUSE: Aquarius
EIGHTH HOUSE: Pisces
NINTH HOUSE: Aries
TENTH HOUSE: Taurus
ELEVENTH HOUSE: Gemini
TWELFTH HOUSE: Cancer

The meanings of the cards on houses for all possible charts are provided in the Appendices Section

Use this system to calculate your own Taroscopic Natal Chart and later of people you know well.

But we are not done yet. There is another vital step to learn and apply. As I said in the previous chapter the Taroscopic System incorporates the cards of the Tarot. Specifically we utilize the 22 Major Arcana which correspond with the signs of the zodiac. This means that in the place of signs on houses and planets in outer space, we substitute the corresponding significator from the Major Arcana. The following table shows you which cards go with the twelve signs:

ARIES: Emperor
TAURUS: Hierophant
GEMINI: Lovers
CANCER: Chariot
LEO: Strength
VIRGO: Hermit
LIBRA: Justice
SCORPIO: Death
SAGITTARIUS: Temperance
CAPRICORN: Devil
AQUARIUS: Star
PISCES: Moon

The Wheel, Hanged Man and Tower are not used in the construction of this chart.

So in the case of Professor Tolkien, his complete Taroscopic Natal Chart is as follows:

FIRST HOUSE: Strength
SECOND HOUSE: Hermit
THIRD HOUSE: Justice
FOURTH HOUSE: Death
FIFTH HOUSE: Temperance
SIXTH HOUSE: Devil
SEVENTH HOUSE: Star

EIGHTH HOUSE: Moon
NINTH HOUSE: Emperor
TENTH HOUSE: Hierophant
ELEVENTH HOUSE: Lovers
TWELFTH HOUSE: Chariot

Strength is the card associated with the sign of Leo, Professor Tolkien's rising sign. The rising sign significator is always placed on the first house of the zodiac. If you lay the cards in a circle, the first house is always located at the 9 o'clock position of the circle. The second house is at 10 o'clock. So it goes until you reach the twelfth house at the 8 o'clock position. I recommend using this circular layout when constructing Taroscopic charts.

Substituting the Major Arcana for bland signs and planets provides us with a visual dimension not found in normal astrological divination. The benefit will become clear after you start working with the system. The visual images on the cards access deeper levels of consciousness. They open the doors to the ancestral brain or Living Oracle, thus awakening deeper clairvoyant abilities. When you create and lay out your personal Taroscopic Chart, you will see that you are working with a mandala rather than a grey one-dimensional map of your consciousness and destiny.

Do not forget that as a Capricorn-Aquarius, Professor Tolkien's sun sign Tarot significators are the Devil and Star. Be sure to lay these cards in the center of the chart or above it. Remember that there are both positive and negative traits associated with these and every card of the Major Arcana. In my book Path of the Fool, you will find detailed meanings of all the Tarot arcanum in both their positive and negative aspects.

Improving Your Skill

Always remember to consult the table of Tropical sun sign dates. Once you count back six degrees or days from a sun sign's end date, you will have the cutoff point of the sign you're looking at. A client born before that point is Taroscopically considered a native of the following sign because that is where their ruling constellation has moved. Their rising sign is that which diametrically opposes this sign. If your client's date of birth falls after the cutoff point they are a true native of the sign in question. Their rising sign will be that opposite their sun sign. After a while you will be able to work out these details in your head. You will be able to give a reading to a client or interested party right there and then, without lifting a pen, paper or book.

Comparing Systems

After grasping the method of creating your Taroscopic Natal Chart, you may be inclined to compare and contrast the system with that of traditional astrological approaches. At first glance you might think this system lacks specificity. In the Taroscopic System every person born in the first twenty-four degrees of a sign (or approximately six days before the end of the month), has the same rising sign. In Tropical astrology this is not the case. For example, in Tropical astrology, twelve Taureans, born between April 21 and May 14, might very well have different rising signs, which apparently accounts for the differences in their personalities and life-experience. If they all have the same rising sign, won't their charts be ill-equipped to account for these differences? On first glance the answer is yes. In which case it appears that the Taroscopic System lacks specificity and diversity. However the Taroscopic System gets to this needed specificity in an alternative way. As you will see, even though planets, transits and aspects are dispensed with, the Taroscopic System provides greater specificity and diversity than traditional astrological methods.

CHAPTER THREE

Specificity in the Natal Chart

As said earlier, there are two steps to creating a Taroscopic Natal Chart. The second step is vitally important because it provides the specificity common to Tropical astrological charts.

In conventional astrology the rising sign is equivalent to the constellation that appeared on the eastern horizon at the precise moment of one's birth. As I said there is not a lot of legitimacy to this theory or zone, because in ancient times the means of determining what was on the eastern horizon at the moment of every infant's birth did not exist. An astrologer would not only have had to be there in person at the time of one's birth, but also able to physically observe what constellation appeared on the eastern horizon as the birth took place. In any other case – days, weeks or years after a birth – he was bound to make use of a welter of technical paraphernalia to do the calculation and construct a natal chart. He would need an ephemeris, table of houses and other astronomical books to work it out.

What is more, atlases are needed to determine the degrees of longitude and latitude where one was born. This is because the sun's path across the sky is computed in relation to one's town of birth. Yes, it's all rather complicated and mechanical. Logic tells us that the ancients did not bother with these details when constructing divination charts. These systems certainly do work. That is, when all is said and done, they do eventually provide information about character and destiny. But so does tea-leaf reading and palm-reading. And these are far less complicated. What we find problematic is the complex left-brain computations that appear to be necessary before getting to the vital facts about human nature. We suspect that something has gone wrong somewhere. And indeed something did go wrong. As we approached modern times, and since the Copernican revolution, our conception of time radically and permanently changed. This is because consciousness itself changed from whole-brain to partial-brain modes of cognition. What we know as the ego arose from the grave of the Imperial Self, to be the new center of consciousness. It did so as the sun became for earthlings the center of the cosmos. This narrowing and impoverishment of consciousness is particularly conspicuous in the prohibition against "graven images," central to Judeo-Christianity, and the overt focus on and preference for words and abstract mathematical cyphers and computations. We do not see that these technical modes of cognition and expression serve as gates barring the way to holistic hygienic thought. The stark fact is that one does not come upon the Inner Zodiac using these methods. You do open communion with it by way of those same prohibited "graven images."

In light of this I prefer to ignore the eastern horizon and all the paraphernalia needed to calculate what constellation appears there at the time of one's birth. Nor am I bothered with the place of your birth. This does not mean, however, that we are unable to create charts as specific as those of Tropical astrologers. Indeed the complete Taroscopic Natal Chart has more specificity. Let's see how.

The Personal life Number

Specificity comes into the Taroscopic Natal Chart by way of Numerology and Tarot. Both of these high arts of divination can be perfectly and logically incorporated into astrological divination in a unique and dynamic manner.

The first step entails finding what numerologists refer to as your Personal Life Number. In the Taroscopic System this number is supremely important, and it really comes alive, as it were, when linked with an astrological natal chart. In fact I personally have always considered the Personal Life Number to be the numerological equivalent of an astrological rising sign.

Finding Your Personal Life Number

It is not difficult to find your PLN. Here's how it's done:

Example: Professor J. R. R. Tolkien, born on January 3, 1892.

There are three parts to every date of birth: the month, day and year. All we do is reduce each of these to a single digit.

January (the first month) makes 1 and the digits of 1892 add to 20 which in turn reduces to 2.

Then we add the these two numbers to 3 (Tolkien's day of birth) – 1 + 2 + 3 = 6

So we see that Professor Tolkien's PLN is 6. It is a single digit, and that's fine. It cannot be reduced, so we use it as is. If his PLN was 15 or 24 we would not automatically reduce it to 6.

The next step is to bring in the Major Arcana. The number 6 corresponds with the Lovers. Take this card and place it on the first house of the zodiac. You can lay the card over the Strength card (from the first level natal chart) if you prefer to have the two natal charts fused into one, or alternatively create a new chart beside the first. It's your choice. In any case, place the Lovers on the first house and lay the following cards round until you reach the twelfth house position:

FIRST: Lovers
SECOND: Chariot
THIRD: Strength
FOURTH: Hermit
FIFTH: Wheel
SIXTH: Justice
SEVENTH: Hanged Man
EIGHTH: Death
NINTH: Temperance
TENTH: Devil
ELEVENTH: Tower
TWELFTH: Star

You will notice that we are now incorporating the Wheel of Fortune, Hanged Man and Tower. This is as it should be. For this chart each of the twenty two cards are employed.

We now have two related charts to analyze, each providing us with essential details about Professor Tolkien's outlook, behavior, choices, opportunities, challenges, strengths, weaknesses, relationships, and so on. Notice how by incorporating the Major Arcana we have the specificity somewhat lacking in the first level natal chart. In fact we have more specificity than we can possibly derive from a Tropical chart. This is because in conventional astrology there can only be twelve possible rising signs. In the Tropical system, as we saw, it is possible for twelve different Taureans to have twelve different rising signs. They share the same sun sign but the differences in their character and destiny are discerned by way of their different rising signs. But, as we said, there can only be twelve possible rising signs – from Aries to Pisces. In our system there can be twenty two rising signs – from the Fool to the Universe. That is almost double what is on offer from conventional astrological systems. It is this fact that convinced me to work exclusively with the Taroscopic System. I was also committed to the system because it incorporates Tarot arcana, adding that essential visual element completely lacking in all other forms of astrology.

We see that the twelve house system or template allows us to easily and effectively incorporate the cards of the Tarot and the Personal Life Number from numerology. By converting this number to a card we give it visual depth and context. By placing it on the first house we make it into a veritable rising sign. The following cards are subsequently laid on the following houses to form the second level Taroscopic Natal Chart. Some of you may use this secondary system more than the first. It is up to you. Once you work out a client's Life Number, you can do their second level chart in your head without the need of books and print-outs.

In my book Path of the Fool you will find the complete meanings of the twenty two cards.

More on Numerology

In conventional numerology there are eleven important Life Numbers: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 22. The last two numbers are referred to as Master Numbers. Of course it is easy to see that once-upon-a-time numerology was connected to the Tarot, since there are twenty two cards in the Major Arcana. It makes sense to reconnect the two divination arts, which is what the Taroscopic System does. In fact, we can go beyond the conventional form of numerology by extending the list of Life Numbers. The cards of the Major Arcana do not stop at 9, but continue on to twenty two. For this reason I think it appropriate to employ the extra nine double-digit numbers, thereby providing extra specificity when analyzing a chart.

Example: Elvis Presley, born January 8, 1935.

We see that Elvis' PLN is 18. This is a double-digit significator. But we do not reduce it to 9. We keep it as it is and incorporate it into the natal chart. A conventional numerologist will not consider the double-digit number or significator. They work only with the number 9. And that is fine. It tells us quite a bit. But of course we go several steps ahead of the numerologist by merging the PLN with the zodiac. This is when the PLN comes alive, as it were. The number 18 corresponds with the Moon card. Simply lay this card on the first house of the natal chart, with the following cards laid on the subsequent houses or zones, in the following manner:

FIRST: Moon
SECOND: Sun
THIRD: Judgment
FOURTH: World
FIFTH: Fool
SIXTH: Magician
SEVENTH: Priestess
EIGHTH: Empress
NINTH: Emperor
TENTH: Hierophant
ELEVENTH: Lovers
TWELFTH: Chariot

With the Moon card on the first house you might be inclined to refer to Elvis as a Pisces rising. This is because the Moon card signifies the sign of Pisces. And you are not far off with this analysis. In any case it is quite legitimate to move back and forth between the disciplines of Astrology and Tarot when analyzing any and all charts. Do so with your own chart, and see where it takes you.

Importantly, you are employing the double-digit numbers rather than the single-digits to gain deeper insight into your chart. As you become proficient you will see that this is a perfectly logical and effective way to proceed.

- Refer to Appendix 3 to study the 19 individual Taroscopic Natal Charts based on Personal Life Numbers.

CHAPTER FOUR
Constructing Your Personal Year Chart I

Numerology and Tarot play a vital role when it comes to constructing your Taroscopic Personal Year Chart. I can't emphasize the importance of being able to create this chart for yourself before a new year begins, or during the early part of a new year. By way of this chart you get a handle on the opportunities, decisions, relationships, challenges and warnings coming your way. Indeed, certain years will be nothing less than major Rites of Passage in your life. It is better to know about these years and what they portend before they arrive. That is the reason why these arts exist, and why the Living Oracle exists – to provide you with the advice required to successfully and easily navigate the seas of fate. When you use this chart properly you get advice on questions concerning your overall temperament, finances and business opportunities, siblings, local activities and acquaintances, home environment, purchase of property and other valuables, family and relatives, success and public recognition, health, skills and responsibilities, contracts and legalities, romantic partners, financial allies, rivals and enemies, travel prospects, major yearly challenges, work environment, opportunities to advance, and vital warnings to offset loss of finances and peace of mind. By analyzing the twelve zones of your chart you will also be able to know what kind of energy to bring to the various situations that manifest themselves. The Taroscopic chart works dynamically to not only let you know what to expect from life during the year, but what to proactively do when a situation arises. This is the empowering aspect of a chart. Once you become proficient at reading your own year chart you will soon be able to read charts for other people, giving them the advice they need to make life more productive and agreeable.

The Personal Year Number

As I said, the Taroscopic year chart is activated when we combine astrology with numerology. In the natal chart we employed a key numerological significator, the Personal Life Number. Now we employ another equally important significator, the Personal Year Number. In conventional numerology there are twelve of these numbers – 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11 and 22. In the Taroscopic System there are twenty – 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22. There is no straight 1 or 2 in our system because as you will see the Personal Year Number cannot be less than 3.

Finding Your PYN

To find the Personal Year Number, we do not consider your year of birth. This is because we are interested in the present year. It is the present year number that we work with. If you are interested in creating a chart for any past year, you do so in the same way shown here, changing only the year number.

Example: Harpo de Marx, born July 13, 2015.

July = 7
13 = 4 (1 + 3)
2015 = 8 (2 + 0 + 1 + 5)

Now add all three parts together:

7 + 4 + 8 = 19

When calculating the three parts of the date of birth, always reduce sums to single digits for convenience. For example if the year number came to 24 (as in 1995), reduce it to 6. Note also that there is no way of arriving at a straight 1 or 2, since there are three parts of the date to calculate.

We see that Harpo's PYN is 19. This can of course be reduced to 10 or 1. This is how a 1 PYN is calculated by conventional numerologists. And quite rightly so. Since they do not employ the Tarot, they have no reason to use double-digit numbers. We on the other hand do use them. Now we simply bring in the Major Arcana and find the significator numbered 19. It is the Sun card. Place it on the first house of the zodiac and lay the following cards on the subsequent houses, like so:

FIRST: Sun

SECOND: Judgment
THIRD: World
FOURTH: Fool
FIFTH: Magician
SIXTH: Priestess
SEVENTH: Empress
EIGHTH: Emperor
NINTH: Hierophant
TENTH: Lovers
ELEVENTH: Chariot
TWELFTH: Strength

Remember that these Tarot significators are placed on houses which do not correspond with calendar months. In a forthcoming chapter I'll show you how to construct a month-by-month calendrical chart based on, and supplemental to, a Personal Year Chart. At this point you need to understand what each of the twelve houses signify. To become proficient in astrological divination, it is essential that you study and memorize the meanings of the twelve houses. Almost everything about your life during the year can be extrapolated from these houses. Each card on a house not only lets you know what to expect from a given situation or person, but also gives you tips on how to respond to them. (See Appendix 1 for a brief description of the twelve houses.)

CHAPTER FIVE
CONSTRUCTING YOUR PERSONAL YEAR CHART II

Now let us learn how to construct the month-by-month chart that works alongside the house system detailed in the previous chapter. You will see at once that this constitutes a very practical application of the year chart. The cards or significators falling on the twelve zones not only provide you with insight into what is about to occur as the year unfolds, but also suggest the manner in which you can best respond to situations that arise.

This chart is relatively simple to create. You use the same significators that make up the Personal Year Chart. Only the placement differs. If we take our fictional example, we remember that Harpo's PYN significator, the Sun, was placed on the first house of the chart. This should always be the case when a house-style chart is constructed and analyzed. However, for a month-by-month chart you place the PYN significator in the center of the chart as an overall theme card. The following card – in this case Judgment or Aeon – is placed at the 6 o'clock position which approximately corresponds to the months of December and January.

In conventional numerology the month-by-month chart is made by placing the PYN in the center of the chart as the overall significator. Then to this number - for example 19/1 - the numerologist adds 1 for the first month that opens the year, namely January. January is therefore considered a 2 Personal Month. (Remember that conventional numerologists do not employ double-digit numbers). If the PYN was 9, the first month of January would be a 10/1 Personal Month. The next month of February would be a 2, and so on round to October, the tenth calendar month. At this point 10 is added to the PYN (1) to get 11. October is therefore an 11/2 Personal Month. (Remember that conventional numerologists acknowledge 11 as a master number, although they often reduce it to 2 and analyze that number also). November would be a 3, and December (end of year) would be a 4 Personal Month.

In the Taroscopic System this assignment of numbers to calendar months is not changed. However, the idea of what constitutes a month is a point of difference, and for good reason. The months we are familiar with are of dubious invention and do not synch with the signs of the zodiac. Conventional numerologists prefer to heedlessly work with the arbitrary exoteric Gregorian calendar without realizing that their system is imperfect. To create a wholly accurate month-by-month system we must abandon the calendar months in favor of the astrological "months" or signs. The twelve signs, as we know, are each of thirty degrees or days. However their starting point is different than that of a calendar month. The latter start, as we know, on the first of the month, whereas the starting point of a sign starts around the twenty first of a month. This makes the two systems overlap by nine or ten days. When a conventional numerologist thinks that a month has nine or ten days left, the sidereal numerologist's new "month" (or sign) has already begun. A conventional numerologist's month ends approximately on the 30th, whereas a new astrological "month" approximately began on the 21st.

It might take a little time to memorize the opening and closing dates of the twelve astrological signs, but it's worth it since you will not have a wholly accurate chart without doing so. Moreover, as I have pointed out the twelve astrological demarcations are actually a projection of your consciousness. They are, therefore, a more perfect map of the psyche than the calendar months. They accurately articulate your Inner Chronology.

Star Sign Dates

Now that you understand the imperfections of the conventional numerological year chart, we can move on to construct the more accurate Taroscopic version. First let's memorize the star sign dates. Pay attention to the December-January period which opens the year:

ARIES
MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

TAURUS
APRIL 21 - MAY 20

GEMINI
MAY 21 - JUNE 20

CANCER
JUNE 21 - JULY 21

LEO
JULY 22 - AUGUST 22

VIRGO
AUGUST 23 - SEPTEMBER 22

LIBRA
SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 22

SCORPIO
OCTOBER 23 - NOVEMBER 22

SAGITTARIUS
NOVEMBER 23 - DECEMBER 21

CAPRICORN
DECEMBER 22 - JANUARY 19

AQUARIUS
JANUARY 20 - FEBRUARY 18

PISCES
FEBRUARY 19 - MARCH 20

From now on start thinking of months as signs (but not houses). By doing so you move to an esoteric understanding of time in relation to consciousness. You are also in possession of the means to dramatically enhance your life experience.

Given our example above, the first "month" falls between December 22 and January 19. This constitutes the sign of Capricorn, but as a Timescope or Personal Timeline you must not think of it as a house, which is not a temporal zone. You must think of it as a month or sign – that is a temporal period of thirty or so days.

The Personal Timeline

Let us take our fictional example: Harpo de Marx, born July 13.

We want to calculate his Timescope for the year 2015. Which means we take the two first parts of his date of birth and add to them the year in question:

July 13, 2015

July = 7
13 = 4
2015 = 8

7 + 4 + 8 = 19

The PYN is 19, which corresponds to the Sun card. In the previous chapter we laid this card on the first house in order to create a twelve house chart.

However, because we are now shifting gears and moving down a step into the year as a temporal theatre, we do as conventional numerologists do, and place our year significator in the center of the chart as an overall theme card. The next card to it – Judgment/Aeon – is then placed over the first period, with the following cards on the subsequent astrological "months:"

CAPRICORN
DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 19 - Judgment

AQUARIUS
JANUARY 20 to FEBRUARY 18 - World

PISCES
FEBRUARY 19 to MARCH 20 - Fool

ARIES
MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 - Magician

TAURUS
APRIL 21 to MAY 20 - Priestess

GEMINI
MAY 21 to JUNE 20 - Empress

CANCER
JUNE 21 to JULY 21 - Emperor

LEO
JULY 22 to AUGUST 22 - Hierophant

VIRGO
AUGUST 23 to SEPTEMBER 22 - Lovers

LIBRA
SEPTEMBER 23 to OCTOBER 22 - Chariot

SCORPIO
OCTOBER 23 to NOVEMBER 22 - Strength

SAGITTARIUS
NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 - Hermit

The positive and negative card meanings are provided in my book Path of the Fool.

So there you have it. This is a yearly map which perfectly reflects your Inner Chronology. It is an outer replica of your Inner Zodiac in its most practical form. Once you create a Taroscopic Year Chart for yourself, have it printed out and kept nearby. As each new "month" starts, have its card significator on the fridge door or night stand in plain view. Have a normal calendar on the wall, with the beginnings and endings of the astrological periods clearly marked in colored pen. (Astrological calendars are available from certain physical or online stores.) On the calendar write the month numbers, so you can quickly determine what Personal Month you are in. Ultimately you want to be able to do the calculation in your head, but in the early stages make it easy for yourself and have it written out and at hand.

The Personal Day

Once you know what Personal Year it is, you get a clear picture of the dos and don'ts for the entire period. You also have a step-by-step breakdown of the Personal Months, which enables you to plan for shorter periods. From this point you are able to focus in to the next level of the Timeline, and calculate your Personal Days.

This is achieved in the same way used by conventional numerologists. However, once again, you will not be thinking of a month in a conventional calendrical sense. You regard it as an astrological period corresponding to the dates given in the table above.

In Harpo's case his PYN is 19. This makes his first "month" a 20/2. (It is preferable to use the single digit for this calculation). Now it is a simple matter of knowing what calendar date it is. Reduce it to a single digit and add it to the Personal Month Number.

> Example: We want to know Harpo's Personal Day Number for his own birthday of January 3, 2015.
> Well, we know it's the 3rd we are talking about. But what is Harpo's Personal Month Number for January? It's 2. Add 2 to 3 and we have 5. Harpo's PDN is 5. That is a good day for multitasking, getting out and about, seeing places and friends, taking interesting classes and expanding one's know-how.
> If he wanted to know his PDN for the 30th of the next month, we see that his Personal Month will be 3. Therefore 3 plus 30 (or 3) equals 6.

> His PDN for the 30th is 6. That is a perfect time for extroversion, social gatherings, parties, domestic improvement, making contacts, getting needed assistance and coming across well to other people.

You are now able to create your personal calendar which exists as an archetype behind the usual monthly public calendar. By adhering to this Personal Timeline, you will experience a greater sense of empowerment on a day-to-day basis.

The Personal Timeline is the basis of my Timegnosis system. Visit my website for a more thorough explanation of the uses of numerology in relation to the zodiac and your daily life. You will also find the meanings associated with your Personal Day Numbers.

APPENDIX 1
TAROSCOPIC YEAR CHARTS

In this section you will find the complete meanings of cards on houses in relation to Taroscopic yearly charts.

As you will see from the following detailed sections, the card corresponding to the client's numerological Personal Year Number is always placed on the first house of their chart. The following cards of the Major Arcana are then placed in sequence thereafter, until the 12th house is reached. This layout constitutes a complete Taroscopic year chart.

Although there are 22 Arcana, there can only be twenty possible yearly charts. No one can be under a straight 1 Personal Year, since this is a single digit, and there are three parts of a date of birth to calculate. Similarly, no one can be under a straight 2 Personal Year. You will see that the first chart possible is the 3 Personal Year.

For readers who wish to use single-digit numbers, a double-digit Personal Year Number can be reduced to a single-digit and analyzed accordingly. For example, if a client's Personal Year Number is 19 (Sun), we can, if we wish, reduce this number and include cards 10 and 1 (Wheel and Magician), and analyze them also. This may yield additional useful insights into their situation. If their year number is 10, we can reduce this to 1 and employ the Magician in a supplemental capacity. (We do not use Arcanum 19 – The Sun). If their year number is The Fool (22), we can if we wish include The Emperor (4) in a supplemental capacity.

Cards and Planet-Rulers

Each card of the Major Arcana is associated with an astrological planet, or as I prefer to say Planet-Archetype. It is important to know what these are. In most cases my planet-rulerships of the cards accords with the traditional correspondences, but there are a few cards which differ slightly from the conventional understanding. In the Taroscopic System we pay attention to astrological exaltations and also to Kabalistic correspondences. The following table shows the Taroscopic correspondences between the Major Arcana and astrological planet-archetypes:

FOOL: Uranus
MAGICIAN: Mercury
PRIESTESS: Moon
EMPRESS: Venus
EMPEROR: Mars
HIEROPHANT: Venus and/or Saturn
LOVERS: Mercury
CHARIOT: Moon and/or Jupiter
STRENGTH: Sun
HERMIT: Mercury
WHEEL: Jupiter
JUSTICE: Venus and/or Moon
HANGED MAN: Neptune
DEATH: Pluto
TEMPERANCE: Jupiter
DEVIL: Saturn
TOWER: Mars and/or Saturn
STAR: Uranus and/or Venus
MOON: Neptune

Remember that when it comes to cards on houses, a card not only represents what to expect from that house, but also what kind of energy we can and should actively bring to it. Be sure to think of the relationship between card and house like a two way signal. In many cases a card's position lets us know what awaits us, but it also suggests a course of action, so that we do not remain passive in the face of the contingencies of existence. Entire readings can be done using this latter method. (See my online Taroscopic Mystery School for more on this.)

Now let's briefly delineate the meanings of the all-important twelve houses. The first house reveals facts about your core personality, temperament, outlook and destiny. The second house reveals facts about your material prospects, physical capacities, practical know-how, values, work experience, hardiness and stamina. The third house gives information about your mental state, daily encounters, communications, neighbors, local environment and siblings. The fourth house deals with family matters, your mother's life, her past, your domestic situation, personal property and security. It also deals with emotions. The fifth house is the house of energy, fun, pleasure, children, recreation and fame. The sixth house deals with your profession and vocation, workmates, health, pets and duties. The seventh has to do with legalities, contracts, agreements, honesty, partnerships and marriages. The eighth house deals with the finances and intentions of business allies, bequests, endowments, grievances, as well as sexual and psychological power. The ninth house with overall challenges, long-distance travel, foreign projects and interests, moral tests, higher understanding and insights. The tenth house with professional ambitions, life-achievements, superiors, and your father's influence and wellbeing. The eleventh house reveals facts about your friends, hopes, expectations, social savvy and public interactivity, and the twelfth house deals with fears, warnings, losses and past regrets.

Be sure to consider these house meanings at all times in relation to the card assigned to a particular house.

They are caring, patient and considerate.
They are responsible and professional.
They are honest and to the point.
They prefer to streamline their workload.
They employ efficient methods and techniques.
They delegate tasks to save time and energy.

Negative

A partner is in no mood for being annoyed.
They are exhausted from past trials.
They wish for the return of calm.
They need to recharge their batteries.
They are nervous and short-tempered.
They avoid noise and clutter.
Their duties toward others seem non-ending.
They are nearing the end of their tether.
A long-term commitment reaches its end.
They are restless and worried.
A period of work and engagement ends.
They are at a loose end.
A position is no longer available.
They must accept lower pay.
They are not able to advance as expected.
Certain hopes are dashed.
They realize that plans were slipshod.

A partner's health takes a turn for the worse.

EIGHTH HOUSE (Wheel of Fortune)

Business goes well.
The wind blows in our favor.
The pace speeds up.
We strike when the iron is hot.
Sound preparation and readiness pay off.
We are in demand and must stay on top of the situation.
We remain alert and receptive to changes.
We expect the unexpected.
There is little time for hesitation and doubt.
Allies are fired up and determined to see results.
They have all sorts of ideas.
We provide a steadying hand.
Desired changes come to pass.
We risk striking out on our own.

We are willing to gamble resources.
We inherit money and property.
We win out over rivals and counter-claimants.

Negative

We work against the clock.
We work at breakneck speed.
We struggle to meet crucial deadlines.
Allies are eager to forge ahead.
We feel pressured and overwhelmed.
The comfortable routine is shaken up.
Our mettle is being tested.
We want instant success.
We envy the success of others.
We are envious and obsessed with making it.
We show our hand early without caution.
We take foolish risks with other people's money.
We recklessly gamble and lose precious funds and assets.

NINTH HOUSE (Justice)

We consider the ethics behind our actions.
Doing the right thing is top priority.
We are fair and equitable.
We repay allies and confidants.
We expertly judge people and situations.

We sign contracts and legally protect ourselves.
We take nothing on trust.

We pass an important moral or legal test.
We benefit from honesty and scrupulousness.
We speak precisely and press others to do likewise.
We rely on facts rather than opinions and hearsay.

We succeed because we refuse to act in haste.
We prepare and stay in the background.
We learn from the mistakes of others.
We stay true to our beliefs and personal vision.
We strive for perfection.

Negative

We are impossibly cold, inflexible and officious.
We feign indifference.
We remain aloof and critical.
We force others to jump through hoops to impress us.
We prevaricate until the moment has passed.
We lose all sense of spontaneity.
We are devious and manipulative.
We unnecessarily disguise our true intentions.
We act unfairly and ruthlessly.

TENTH HOUSE (Hanged Man)

We take time out to re-evaluate our professional life.
We make necessary alterations.
We gradually pull back from previously chosen courses.
We privately make plans to do something else.

We innovate and break the mould.
We prefer to do the unexpected.
We see things from new perspectives.
We challenge the status quo.
We innovate and explore new methods and techniques.

We work with unfamiliar people.
We explore new markets.

We strive for greater latitude and command.
We prefer to work at our own pace and schedule.
We silently and subtly work behind the scenes.
We use psychology when interacting with people.
We are sensitive to their true needs and desires.
We don't open up too soon.
We conceal our true intentions for a while.
We hide our objectives and do not share plans for the future.
We persevere and don't prematurely take our bows.
We are not swayed or thwarted by delays and obstacles.

Negative

We are out of our depth.
We must disguise our lack of ability.
We are incompetent and anxious.
It takes time to secure ourselves and find our feet.
We are in danger of making serious mistakes.

Our goals are irrational and impossible to attain.
We feel uninspired and uncreative.
We think others are more productive and happy.
We are envious of others.
We believe we have failed.
We believe we have been passed over.
We misjudge our capabilities and importance.

Superiors and bosses are inept.
They make serious mistakes.
They are overwhelmed and incompetent.
They hide the facts from employees.
Mismanagement, deception and criminality are uncovered.
Management expects us to be dishonest and unlawful.
Management steers without charts.
It may be time to jump ship.

Our father's health worsens.
He experiences a setback.
He feels he has lost something precious.
He is moody and depressed.
His focus is not on his work.
His business suffers from lack of attention.
He deals with incompetent or deceptive superiors or allies.

Our father reviews his life.
He contemplates his failures and limitations.
He experiences a catharsis.

ELEVENTH HOUSE (Death)

A friend does well in business.
They work long hours and take little rest.
They fight hard and win important victories.
They increase their wealth and holdings.
They heroically overcome difficult odds.
Their achievements and spirit inspires others.

We experience intense moments with friends.
They exchange personal secrets.
They get things off their chest.
A friend is anxious and intense.
They turn to us for advice and consolation.

We turn to a friend for needed assets and guidance.
A friend bravely tells us the truth about what they see.
We benefit from their candour.

We seek friends who are intelligent and powerful.
Our friends are wealthy, creative and special.
We make important contacts.

There is turmoil in our social environment.
Fights break out and upset the peace.
People are uneasy and aggressive.

Negative

Differences we have with people are highlighted.
Friends fall out and accuse each other.
There is a climate of acrimony and blame.
We are unable to reconcile differences.
A certain friend becomes impossibly hostile and accusatory.

APPENDIX 2
Natal Charts I

Your Taroscopic Rising Sign

In the following pages you will find the meanings of cards on houses in relation to your Taroscopic Natal Chart. A conventional astrological natal chart is cast once in your life, and reveals information about your life from birth to death. It is usually constructed by way of elaborate calculations based on your date of birth, and exact time and place of birth. As you have seen from the opening chapters of this book, the Taroscopic System does not take time and place of birth into consideration. No details of importance about your character and destiny are omitted by this practice. On the contrary, essential natal details are arrived at with an ease and efficacy not found in normal astrological techniques. What is more, the 22 cards of the Major Arcana work far more effectively with the astrological houses than "planets," "aspects" and "transits," calculated by way unnecessary atlases, empherises and tables of houses, etc.

When all the unnecessary paraphernalia is excised we are able to get to the basics of the natal chart. It is made of twelve houses which yield information about every aspect of your life. Each house offers a great deal of information, but learning the basics is essential. In short, the first house reveals facts about your core personality, temperament, outlook and destiny. The second house reveals facts about your material prospects, physical capacities, practical know-how, values, work experience, hardiness and stamina. The third house gives information about your mental state, daily encounters, communications, neighbors, local environment and siblings. The fourth house deals with family matters, your mother's life, her past, your domestic situation, personal property and security. It also deals with emotions. The fifth house is the house of energy, fun, pleasure, children, recreation and fame. The sixth house deals with your profession and vocation, workmates, health, pets and duties. The seventh has to do with legalities, contracts, agreements, honesty, partnerships and marriages. The eighth house deals with the finances and intentions of business allies, bequests, endowments, grievances, as well as sexual and psychological power. The ninth house with overall challenges, long-distance travel, foreign projects and interests, moral tests, higher understanding and insights. The tenth house with professional ambitions, life-achievements, superiors, and your father's influence and wellbeing. The eleventh house reveals facts about your friends, hopes, expectations, social savvy and public interactivity, and the twelfth house deals with fears, warnings, losses and past regrets.

For successful natal chart analysis, you must consider these house meanings at all times in relation to the card assigned to a particular house.

Members of my mystery school are directed to the section on Astrological Houses, where detailed house meanings are presented for both yearly and natal divination. Non-members click here for a general overview of the twelve houses.

To master this system, be sure to find the Taroscopic Rising Signs of your favorite people, and of well known media personalities. Lay their charts out, refer to the following sections, and see how accurate the profiles are.

APPENDIX 3
Natal Charts II

The Personal Life Number

As I show in Chapter Three, there is a unique way to get more detail from your Taroscopic Natal Chart. We do so by utilizing your Personal Life Number, which in the Taroscopic System is considered the numerological equivalent of an astrological rising sign.

Once you have worked out your Personal Life Number (PLN), keep it as a double-digit number. This is essential and unique to the Taroscopic System. Take the card in the Major Arcana associated with your PLN and lay it as the main significator over the first house position of the astrological twelve-house chart. Lay each of the next eleven cards on each following house, in sequence from the second to the twelfth house. (Remember that the first house position is at 9 o'clock, the second at 10, and so on round to the 8 o'clock position.) You do not employ reversed card meanings in this chart. The twenty meanings presented below are subdivided into positive and negative categories, in a way that is relatively easy to memorize.

This combination of cards and houses makes for a comprehensive and dynamic divination system. It is also a complete divination system unto itself and can be successfully employed to start your career reading natal charts for clients. As you digest the material presented in previous sections of this book, be sure to spend time mastering this stand-alone system. You'll find the time well spent.

Let's review the basic meanings of the twelve astrological houses:

The first house reveals facts about your core personality, temperament, outlook and destiny. The second house reveals facts about your material prospects, physical capacities, practical know-how, values, work experience, hardiness and stamina. The third house gives information about your mental state, daily encounters, communications, neighbors, local environment and siblings. The fourth house deals with family matters, your mother's life, her past, your domestic situation, personal property and security. It also deals with emotions. The fifth house is the house of energy, fun, pleasure, children, recreation and fame. The sixth house deals with your profession and vocation, workmates, health, pets and duties. The seventh has to do with legalities, contracts, agreements, honesty, partnerships and marriages. The eighth house deals with the finances and intentions of business allies, bequests, endowments, grievances, as well as sexual and psychological power. The ninth house with overall challenges, long-distance travel, foreign projects and interests, moral tests, higher understanding and insights. The tenth house with professional ambitions, life-achievements, superiors, and your father's influence and wellbeing. The eleventh house reveals facts about your friends, hopes, expectations, social savvy and public interactivity, and the twelfth house deals with fears, warnings, losses and past regrets.

For successful natal chart analysis, you must consider the house meanings at all times in relation to the cards falling on them.

Members of my mystery school are directed to the section on Astrological Houses, where detailed house meanings are presented for both yearly and natal divination. Non-members click here for a general overview of the twelve houses.

Some of the descriptions in the following pages are similar to those in Appendices Two. This is intentional. It makes the correspondences easier to memorize. Note also that in this section we include the Wheel of Fortune, Hanged Man, Tower, Judgment, Universe, Fool, Magician and High Priestess, which are not employed in previous sections and charts.

Remember, no person can have a straight 1 or 2 Life Number. That is why we prefer to employ and analyze 10, 19, 11 and 20 as PLN. Using the Major Arcana as an interface with the twelve astrological houses allows us to preserve and analyze the double-digit significators.

To master this system, be sure to find the Personal Life Numbers of your favorite people, and of well known media personalities. Lay their Taroscopic charts out, refer to the following sections, and see how accurate their profiles are.
